

AM

5
10

circuits are made up of independent components. Power consumption of the microinstruction is lowered down to a minimum by distributing a large number of instructions within the bar. This reduces the power consumption of the circuit.